the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased from 10.5 million to 12.5 million (12.5% of the population).

There are a number of reasons for this increase. One is that the public sector has become a more important part of the economy. Another is that the public sector has become more efficient. A third is that the public sector has become more attractive to workers. A fourth is that the public sector has become more diverse.

The public sector is becoming more important in the economy. This is because the public sector is providing more services than ever before. This is due to a number of factors, including the fact that the public sector is becoming more efficient and more attractive to workers.
